SCENERY FOR A NEW PLAY. Its Preparation In Modern Theaters an Interesting Process.

The preparation for a new play, as far as the scenery is concerned, is most interesting. A complete model in miniature is made, about the size of one of the German toy theaters seen in the shops. The picture is carefully painted; the rocks, if there be any, and the foliage are cut out, and all the details are followed with no less thought than when the real affair is attacked.

The work is done in water color, nounted on pasteboard, and if the scheme be an interior there are real curtains in miniature, flights of steps, and the hangings, all seriously worked out. It is something that would delight the heart of a boy and furnish him with endless amusement. These models are kept until after the piece s produced, and are then put away on shelves, alas! only to warp and beome covered with dust But the master painter's work does not end here by any means, for there are lights to be arranged, since they play an important part in the per formance and must be regulated by the scheme of color; so there are long conferences with electricians and many discussions with the makers of glass shades whereby the exact tints may be obtained.

When every detail has been settled, then the great acres of canvas are spread on the paint frames, and the drawing is begun. Large china pots are used for the colors. These are filled with paints, which are mixed with water and a size, and enormous brushes put the pigment on the canvas. It is wonderful to watch the artist, who dashes on the paint with [21 General Alarm no apparent care and who has to work fast to cover the surface before the color dries, which it does quickly .-New York Commercial Advertiser.
